5. When asking a question, be sure to include a title, add more information, upload a file, and more. You can also add topic tags to categorize your question and help other users find your content. If you want notifications when someone responds, check the box for “Subscribe to this Question”. When you’re ready, click “Ask a Question”.

The screenshot shows a web form titled "Your question" with a red asterisk. At the top is a text input field containing "I have a question!". Below this is a rich text editor with a toolbar showing options for font size (11pt), bold, italic, underline, text color, background color, bulleted list, numbered list, decrease indent, increase indent, link, unlink, quote, code, insert image, undo, redo, insert table, source code, emoji, and fullscreen. The editor contains the text "Here is my question..." and a small "P" icon at the bottom right. Below the editor is a file attachment section with the text "Attach file:", a "Choose File" button, and "No file chosen" text. To the right of this is the text "Maximum allowed file size is 10MB". Below the file section are two checkboxes: "Set Topic Sticky" (unchecked) and "Private Topic" (unchecked). Below these is a "Question Tags" section with the text "(Separate tags using a comma)" and a text input field containing "tag 1, tag 2". Below the tags is a checkbox labeled "Subscribe to this question" which is checked, with a mouse cursor hovering over it. To the right of this is a green "Ask a question" button with a mouse cursor hovering over it. At the bottom of the form are three links: "Preview", "0 Revisions", and "Save Draft".

6. If your question gets the answer you were looking for, be sure to update your post so your question is listed as “Solved”. You can also mark it as a “Sticky” topic if you need help quickly, “Close” the topic if you do not want more replies, make a topic “Private” if you only want the admins to see it, or “Delete” the comment if you don’t want it visible anymore.
